

Summary

A child seat and a method for child-seat detection are provided, which are distinguished in that a radio-identification chip, which is configured solely as transmitter module, is introduced in the child seat, preferably in the fabric. Due to the automatically emitted radio signal, the child seat is detected by corresponding receiver devices in the vehicle.

(Figure 2)

>